Kentridge High's Marty Osborn will be hosting the 16th annual Puget Sound Football Camp from Monday (June 28) through Wednesday (June 30) at French Field.

"We're excited," Osborn said. "This has always been a good camp for kids, and has been a good experience."

The camp, which costs $90 per player, is aimed at student-athletes from fourth through ninth grades. The non-contact camp will run each day from 9 a.m. to noon. The camp typically draws between 40 and 60 players. For more information on the camp, contact Osborn at 253-891-2294.

"It was a very upsetting year," Wilson conceded. "It's heart-breaking to lose a game. We were out of the playoffs early. But I am back to being excited again with this huge opportunity."

Wilson flew to Austin, Texas late last week to take part in Team USA's five-day practice period. After that, the team will head to Stockholm, Sweden, where it will play in the Women's World Championship from June 27-July 3. The Women's World Championship consists of six teams from six different countries.

For Wilson, this will be the experience of a life time. Other than a trip to Canada years ago, the fleet-footed wide receiver has never left the country. That said, she's looking forward to the trip, but remains a bit apprehensive about the hot Texas heat that awaits her this week.

"I have been nervous about that," said Wilson, a 1996 graduate of Spokane's University High School. "I don't do well with the heat. We will have two-a-days down there and I am not sure how my body will adapt."

Team USA didn't hold any formal tryouts. Instead, players applied to be on the team while coaches also took letters-of-recommendation into account in addition to watching hours upon hours of game film.

Being named to the team also gives Wilson a chance to do what she loves best — play football. Growing up in Spokane, Wilson excelled in basketball and track. In fact, she attended Eastern Washington University on a track scholarship.

Football?

That didn't enter the equation until a few years ago, when a friend convinced her to play. Little did Wilson know at the time that she'd take to football like no other sport she had ever competed in.

"Football is better than track," said Wilson, who was a sprinter and a long jumper on the oval. "I can't believe I didn't start it earlier. Football incorporates everything you could imagine."

And it's panned out for Wilson, too.

Volleyball at K-M

Kent-Meridian's Michael Christiansen will be hosting the Kent-Meridian Volleyball Camp, which ranges in ages from "Little Royals" and Elementary School players to middle school and advanced camps. The first slate of camps is set for June 28-June 2 and will be geared toward Elementary and Middle School players along with "Little Royals." Christiansen, who has coached the K-M team for the past four years, will hold a freshman camp (July 5-9), an advanced camp (July 19-23), and a high school team camp (July 26-30). [ 3-ON-3 from page 20 ]

The tournament, which is slated for Aug. 7-8, will include age divisions for men, women, seniors, kids and wheelchair participants. The participation fee is $100 per team (July 25 deadline). The entry fee will go toward a four-game guarantee and a T-shirt and a trophy (for the winning teams). Games will run throughout the day and into the night on 25 separate courts.

Buzz has begun locally, too.

Craig Rasmussen, who graduated from Kentridge High two weeks ago, plans on bringing a Charger feel to the tournament. Rasmussen, a 6-foot-3 forward, averaged 10.3 points per game with the Chargers during the winter. He will be joined by Devin Topps and Sean Ringor, both of whom played a prominent role on the Kentridge High basketball team the past two years.

"I think this is going to be pretty fun," Rasmussen said. "You have the Hoopfest over there (in Spokane) and it will be nice to have something here on the West side. There are a lot of gym rats around here. I think in five or 10 years, we could get this thing to be pretty big."

Topps, a 6-foot-3, 215-pound forward, averaged 3.9 points for the Chargers during the winter. Topps will be attending Eastern Washington University in the fall on a football scholarship. Ringor, a 5-foot-10 guard, averaged 2.7 points per game with the Chargers.

"I think we'll do all right," said Rasmussen. "Me and Devin, we'll grab the boards, and we have a little guard play, too. You can't do that bad with three varsity basketball players."

Rainy weather will not impact the tournament, Turcotte noted.

"Rain or shine, we're playing," he said.

All games will be played up to 20 points or 25 minutes, whichever comes first. In addition, there will not be any officials as players will be expected to call their own fouls, but there will be court monitors. The two main courts on the premise will be set up for the elite teams and will be surrounded by bleachers, which will be provided by the Kent Parks Department. A concession stand with food and beverages along with a barbecue sponsored by the ShoWare Center also will be available. The tournament also will include a "Kids Zone," which is specially designed for youngsters who are not yet old enough to compete. A portion of the proceeds from the event will be donated back to the Kent Youth and Family Services.

"Our goal right now is to have 24 courts and 150 teams. Anything on top of that would be great," Turcotte said. "The most important thing is that we put on a first-class show."

All American Metal Finishing Site Cleanup

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) administrative record for the All American Metal Finishing site in Kent is available for public review. The record contains documents used to make site cleanup decisions. The site is a former electroplating facility close to the Green River. Many corrosive and hazardous materials were stored on site. Because of recent record high water levels that damaged part of the Howard Hanson Dam, flooding is likely in the area. In response, the chemicals were removed to a secure, EPA-approved facility. Equipment and storage tanks were inspected to ensure all treatment sludges and residues were removed, then left in place. This cleanup protects people in surrounding communities, workers, and animals, including several species of endangered fish.

You can review the administrative record at the Kent Regional Library, 212 2nd Ave. N., Kent, WA 98032, 253-859-3330, or at the EPA office at 1200 Sixth Avenue, Seattle, WA 98101. Call 206-553-4494 between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. to arrange a review.
